BASKETBALL LEAGUE INTEREST KEEN

Two Fast Games Feature Opening With Triangles Shaping Up As City's Best Team.

The City Basketball League opened in this city Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium with the Triangles vs. Central A. A. and Crescents vs. Scholastics. There was a fair sized audience in attendance who thoroughly enjoyed the sport. Secretary Thornberry was the referee and seemed to please all concerned with his fair decisions. Mr. Genthner acted as official scorer and H. M. Pruden was timekeeper.

The first game was between the Triangles and Central A. A. the former winning out by the score of 19 to 12.

Kiernan started off at the sound of the whistle by scoring a foul basket. Johnson scored a field shortly after. Then Kiernan scored a field from the left center, which was a pretty one. Robins scored a foul and Smith scored a quick field. Time was then called. After a two-minute rest J. Rourke tied the score with a field basket. Just before the whistle sounded Johnson made a neat field basket, ending the first half with a score of 7 to 5 in favor of the Triangles.

Dolson opened the second half by scoring two quick field baskets, while Robins missed a foul. Kiernan scored a field, and Dolson again dropped a sinker. B. Rourke then added two points for his team by a field. Time was called. Immediately after rest period a double foul was called, Robins and B. Rourke both missing. Johnson and Wheeler each scored a field, after which Noonan made a foul. Kiernan then scored a field, with Dolson following with a foul. Time called again. Robins ended the game by scoring a foul. Final score, Triangles 19, Central A. A. 12. In the second half Palfist substituted for Smith.

The line-up was as follows:

The second game was between the Crescents and Scholastics, the former winning easily by the score of 26 to 7.

Murray started off with a rush, scoring three quick field goals. Allen then dropped in a foul. Ketchum followed by scoring a field. Jones also made a field, ending the first half, by the score of 10 to 1 in favor of the Crescents.

At the opening of the second half Murray again started the scoring with a field basket. In this half Jones scored three field baskets, Ketchum two, Koenig two and Murray two; Thompson and Foster each scoring one field.

There is another team in the league who play under the title of B. R. C. A.

A complete schedule of games will be published later in the week. A great deal of interest is manifested in these games as there is much wholesome exercise in this indoor sport.

The Triangles are undoubtedly the strongest team in the city and have played some exceptionally strong out of town teams, such as the Machine Gun Company team of Newburgh, St. Mary's team of Poughkeepsie, and a strong team from Saugerties; also many other teams.

On Tuesday evening of this week the Triangles will again travel to Saugerties and play the team of that place for a side bet. The president of the village will make an address before the opening of the game.

George Kaufman, a former graduate of Kingston Academy and Cornell

University, will act as referee, and a large audience is assured as many are expecting to go from here.

DEBARKATION CAMP NEEDS.

Outlined by Local D. A. R. Who Will Act as Clearing Station.

Some little time ago the members of Witteyck Chapter, D. A. R., decided to do what they could to help furnish comforts and aid for the soldiers and sailors wounded in the service of our country and now stationed at the debarkation camps in this country. It was hoped that

Mrs. C. G. Wheeler-Jones, educational director of the Railway Hospital, would be able to come to Kingston and tell just what work was being done there and the special needs of the men. The commandant of the hospital has not and cannot release Mrs. Wheeler-Jones for some time to come, owing to the need for her presence at the hospital, so the chapter has found out what is wanted. Now they ask the people of Kingston who wish to contribute the following articles or anything they have in mind to that cause:

Jack knife.

Scrap books.

Pencils.

Stationery.

Tools of any kind; old tools can be sharpened or re-handled and used.

Books of any kind, especially those light in weight for bed patients.

Skull caps, knitted, crocheted or made of material.

Red socks, knitted, crocheted or made of material.

Prosthetic bags.

Should any one prefer to give money for the purchase of any of these articles or the material of which to make them, that too, will be most acceptable.

The contributions, whether of articles or money, may be left at the Chapter House, this week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon, February 4th, 5th or 6th, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock, when members of the committee having this matter in charge will be there to receive them.

BASEBALL PROSPECT HERE IN KINGSTON

Baseball Experts Believe Semi-Professional Team Would Pay—Hudson River League Could be Organized.

City Judge Harry Schirick and City Marshal Arthur Rice, two of the best informed men on baseball in Kingston, believe that summer baseball could be successfully carried on in Kingston with games played here on Wednesday and Saturdays. A semi-professional team would undoubtedly draw better than an all amateur team.

City Marshal Rice is probably one of the best known ball players in this section of the state, and plays with the Catskill team; one of the fastest teams in this section. Catskill has supported a semi-professional team for the past eight years, and the games always draw large crowds in Catskill.

It would be an easy matter to form an eight team league with Kingston, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Catskill, Tivoli, Hudson, Valatie and another place. Most of the towns play Sunday baseball.

City Marshal Rice when seen today said that in his opinion the best plan would be to organize a semi-professional team and play games on a 50-50 basis on the gate receipts. He saw no reason why a fast team could not be organized in Kingston of local players with perhaps one or two professional out of town players.

Last summer the Twilight League, under the auspices of the board of public works, clearly showed that baseball was a drawing attraction in Kingston and all of the games were largely attended. If a league of fast teams could be organized there is no reason why games should not pay in Kingston.

There is a movement on foot at the present time sounding out sentiment in regard to summer baseball in Kingston. As a suggestion The Freeman offers the names of Judge Schirick and City Marshal Rice as the two men who would be able to get together a fast team to represent Kingston providing they are assured of being backed up by Kingston residents.

Kingston should be able to support a baseball team, and Kingston should be placed on the baseball map in Kingston. There are plenty of organizations in Kingston that should be willing to take the matter up and see to it that Kingston is represented this summer. There is no question but that the other cities mentioned would be willing to become affiliated with such a league as proposed.

Skaters Disappointed.

Many persons were disappointed Sunday afternoon when they shouldered their skates and started for Canfield Lake in Forsyth Park expecting to find some fine skating but upon reaching the lake were disappointed when they found the lake covered with water.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Justice Hasbrouck at the regular special term of the supreme court held at the court house Saturday after hearing the testimony of Mrs. Ethel D. Marsh, plaintiff, granted her an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Seymour Marsh. Van Etten and Cook are attorneys for plaintiff. The co-respondent, a Hoboken woman, also appeared in court with her child and testified that she had been deceived by Marsh who had caused her to believe he was unmarried and with whom she had lived, though they did not get married, but were engaged. Marsh disappeared after the child was born. The parentage of the child it was said was not disputed by him. Mrs. Marsh, who conducts a store at Prince street and Hasbrouck avenue, and Marsh were married in Philadelphia, in 1914, and they have been separated for two years.

More Information About The New Telephone Toll Rates

UNDER the new toll rate schedules announced by the Postmaster General and made effective January 21, 1919 throughout the United States, the term "Station to Station" service, covers the principal or most generally used form of toll service, particularly to nearby points.

WHAT A "STATION TO STATION" CALL IS

"Station to Station" service is the form of service that is available to the telephone user who merely wishes to be connected with a distant telephone and who does not specify that he wishes to talk with a particular person at that telephone.

It is the form of service that suits the needs of the telephone user who can fulfill the purpose of his call by talking to anyone at the distant telephone.

It is the form of service that meets the average requirements of the telephone user.

HOW TO MAKE A "STATION TO STATION" CALL

As far as possible obtain the desired telephone number from the Telephone Directory and give that number to the operator in the usual way.

Where Telephone Directory information is not available the telephone number should be obtained from "Information", or, as in cases of calls to distant points, the name and address of the called subscriber should be given to the Toll Operator.

ADVANTAGES OF CALLING ON "STATION TO STATION" BASIS

The rate for a "Station to Station" call is the lowest rate quoted for service to any particular point. In addition that basis provides the quickest means of reaching a distant telephone.

ALL CALLS BETWEEN POINTS WHERE THE DISTANCE IS TWELVE MILES OR LESS WILL BE ACCEPTED ON THE "STATION TO STATION" BASIS ONLY.

When it is desirable to reach a particular person at a telephone more than 12 miles distant, "Person to Person" service is available. Such calls are made by the calling party specifying that he wishes to talk to a particular person and giving that person's name. This form of service however is not available at distances of 12 miles or less.

Information concerning "appointment," "messenger" and "collect" calls, evening and night "Station to Station" service or other features of the new toll rate plan, will be furnished upon request at our nearest Commercial Office.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

The New Schedules do not change the Rates for, or the handling of, calls within the Local Service Area.

Reading advertisements has helped to make this a united country

Jim Hawkins props his feet on the rose festooned porch railing in an Oregon suburb and reads the same motor car advertisement that Cousin Peter is studying as he rides home from work in the New York subway.

California fruit growers advertise their oranges and lemons to the people of the East. New Hampshire factories make ice cream freezers for Texas households.

There can be no division in a country so bound together by taste, habit and custom.

You can meet up with anybody in the United States and quickly get on a conversational footing because you both read the same advertisements.

Reading advertisements enables you to get more for your money because they tell you where, what and when to buy.

And it is a well-known fact that advertised goods are more reliable and better value than the unadvertised kinds.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY WELL RECEIVED

Friday night in the high school auditorium before an audience of about ten hundred people the Maroon Staff successfully presented their first play of the season. By the amount of applause the audience was certainly pleased and entertained by the performance.

The three comedians, "Bob" Adams, "Teli" Allen and Henry Dunbar, D. P. C., kept the audience in an uproar throughout the evening. The solo, "I Want to Be a Sailor," was enjoyed by all, but the song, "I Love a Lassie," by Allen and Adams, was the real hit of the evening.

"You'll Find Old Dixieland in France," the song by Allen and Adams, was the next one to receive the most enthusiastic applause. The Minuet, by Edith Schryver and John Lynch and the sketch by Marge Rodie and Hecker Roderegers were both successfully presented. The audience enjoyed them very much and the costumes were much admired.

All were pleased with the selections rendered by the Scotch trio, which consisted of Anne Griffin, Dorothy Brown and Virgil DeWitt. They sang "Auld Lang Syne," "I Love a Lassie," and "Coming Through the Rye" with the ability of regular lasses and lassies.

The songs by the soldier and sailor chorus were cleverly presented and enthusiastically received by the audience.

The chorus was composed of, soldiers, Sam Smith, John Krom, Fred Merritt, Sam Weisman and Wilson Norwood; and sailors, James Winters, George Schick, Paul Miller, John Schoonmaker.

The patriotic tableau which was the last thing on the program, was given in excellent style and the speaking was done very efficiently by Miss Mildred Harp.

The furniture used on the stage was loaned by Gregory & Company and Rose, Gorman, Rose, Incorporated.

The other things, including the very valuable electric dome, valued at a goodly sum of money, were loaned by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company.

Miss Anne Griffin and Miss Edith Schryver were the originators of the play. Miss Selgie, Miss Scott, Mr. Dunbar and Mr. Richards coached the actors very efficiently and the staff feel that they owe much to the former for the success of the presentation. A goodly sum was realized and we thank the public for their hearty co-operation with us.

Charles A. Warren, Fair street sporting goods man, and Forsyth & Davis also loaned some articles for the production.

"Only Old Junk"

By OTTILIA F. PFEFFER

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Worthless, a vagrant—I don't believe in encouraging such characters in idleness. They are only old junk."

Thus Mr. Earl Hurst, lecturer, high-brow reformer and self-assured authority on community economy. To him anyone outside of the well-to-do were anarchists in the making. His scheme of life for the lowly embraced a sort of monarchical authority.

"But Smiling Simon is not a vagrant, Mr. Hurst," demurred pretty, warm-hearted Ina Bortell. "Nor is he idle. Everybody likes him, he is absolutely sober and reliable and am glad of it."

"Hein! Ha! Just so. Well, I hope you do not rue the experiment."

Ina Bortell was the sweetest, most lovable girl in the village and Simon Price, "Smiling Simon," a stroller and ne'er-do-well, had been taken ill with fever, had been cared for in the hospital ward of the local jail and had been discharged unkempt, pale and thin, to shift for himself. He had started from the village but grew faint, and had crept through the hedge of the Bortell garden to rest on the grass when Ina discovered him.

"I had to rest," he spoke with difficulty. "I'll get on as soon as I pull myself together. Just out of the hospital, but I'll be all right in a day or so," and he smiled up into the face of his interested hostess, ingenious and confidently as a schoolboy. That sunny smile was his sole capital and somehow it went to the heart of the little lady.

"There's a hammock over near the lilac bushes," she told him. "Let me help you that far."

"Oh! Miss—"

"Indeed you must, and you look as if you needed food."

She guided the faltering steps to the hammock and settled a soft pillow under Smiling Simon's head. The glass of ice cold cream she brought was as nectar to Simon's parched lips. It was followed by chicken broth. Ina listened sympathizingly to the simple story of his life until the tired eyelids closed, and with the accustomed smile upon his face he was immersed in blissful rest.

Thus it was that Simon Price found an oasis in life. There was an abandoned barn on the Bortell lot and in its loft he utilized an old cot. There was no objection to his domesticating himself and as he grew stronger many and helpful were the functions he performed about the place.

There was the poor wreck of a wagon in the barn which Simon mended up. Somewhere he arranged for the rent of a horse. He became the junk man of the district, gathering up rags, iron, glass, rubber and the like, storing it in his "warehouse" until there was a carload, when he shipped the aggregation to the city.

There was a shy, retiring young man in the village named Dale Warren, and to him Simon became like-wise attached. The shrewd discerning eyes of the humble junk gatherer had noted the budding of mutual love between Ina and Warren. It was enough for Simon to know that the goddess of his soul favored the young man, to look upon Warren as a worthy friend.

He decided that Warren, with all his retiring ways, must be good and brave to win the attention of Ina, and one night Warren indeed showed that inherent within him was true manliness and courage.

Simon had hastened down town attracted by a great glare. The town hotel was on fire and just as Simon reached the scene he saw Warren scale a high ladder reaching to the top window of the structure. He disappeared through a window space to emerge amid clouds of blinding smoke, hearing a little child in his arms. A fireman ran up the ladder and received the child in his arms and bore it to the ground. Then a great cry went up from the crowd at the sight of Warren, overcome by smoke and flame, lying senseless across the window sill aloft.

Simon sprang up the ladder, at one place breasting fierce flames pouring from a window. Just as he reached Warren the ladder bent, away, snapped in twain and pushing Warren into the room, he disappeared after him.

Ten minutes later, miraculously escaping through the fire-filled halls of the building, Simon staggered into view bearing across his shoulders the limp form of the insensible Warren, covered with a blanket blazing in places. Then the hero rescuer fell prostrate. An hour later it was known that he had inhaled the flames and had sustained burns that must prove fatal. He was removed to the Bortell home at the direction of Ina's father, who had appeared on the scene. When he weakly came back to consciousness Warren was at his side and Ina was bending over him. Over the face of the sufferer there spread an expression of infinite satisfaction.

"I'm done for, and I'm glad it was in trying to be of use to your friends," he whispered feebly to Ina. "Miss Bortell, it will soon be no secret—Mr. Warren loves you, and you will be happy, and poor Simon is glad."

She bent over him, her tears falling like rain. Then she pressed her lips to his brow. Only old junk! but his face became irradiated and smiling still, "Smiling Simon," passed away.

Such Wastage of Potatoes.

The annual potato crop of the United States is around 400,000,000 bushels. Government statistics show that of this at least 200,000,000 bushels are lost. This waste is due to the rot, mold, and freezing of potatoes in shipment and the lack of storage facilities.

IN THE REALM OF NEW MUSIC

POPULAR SONGSTEEM WITH THOUGHTS OF RETURNING SOLDIERS

Instrumental gems and fascinating ballads among the new interpretations by the world's greatest artists

LL America opens its arms to receive our boys back home again; and to punctuate our expressions of joy on their return it is fitting that we should use the medium of song, thereby giving emphasis to the most natural and spontaneous way.

Starting with the moment our troops leave foreign soil on the home stretch Irving Berlin has made a song to fit the boys' own mouths in the nature of a fond farewell. "Good-bye France" is the title, and the Peerless Quartet shows, on a new Victor Record, how it should be sung. It is of course, a brisk march tune, and there are several familiar melodies interpolated that give it a real American "home" flavor.

On the reverse of the record the same quartet sings "The Navy Will Bring Them Back." Let us forget "Bring Them Back" for a moment. The words were written by Yocman Howard Johnson, U. S. N., who is surely the one to do it.

A logical sequence to the thought of these songs is this one sung by James Shannan on a Victor Record just issued—"Mother, Here's Your Boy." It pays a well-deserved tribute to the mother of the American soldier who has played in surrendering their sons so gladly to the call of duty. In bright march time it sounds a cheerful note, reminding us that the boys are already on their way back. Between the verses a strain from Elie's "Home Again" is appropriately heard.

A companion piece is found on the other side of the record in "Watch, Hope and Wait, Little Girl," sung by Charles Hart. It is an optimistic letter from a soldier to his best girl telling her to cheer up, for his work is finished and he'll soon be home. The sentiment is accompanied by a lively march tune with bells which give a delightful effect.

With a new and pointed significance for many at present that old-time song, "Bring Back My Bonnie to Me" is sung by Alma Gluck on a new Victor Record. And who could sing it with more telling effect?

Alma Gluck has a unique facility for reaching the heart with these old-time ballads that are so very dear to us. The refrain of the melody is repeated by the Orpheus Quartet which adds to the charm of the rendition.

Harry Lauder in a burst of enthusiasm!

The joyous spontaneous spirit of that day of days last November when the armistice was signed, has been captured in song by the one man who could do it in a way to reach the hearts of all men. Harry Lauder presents, on a new Victor Record, entitled, "Don't Let Us Sing About War Any More, Let Us Sing of Love."

It is a cheerful march song, and you can almost hear the tramp of the soldiers' feet as they come trooping triumphantly home. The merry bells in the accompaniment, the whistles, the drum-beat, re-echo the noise of the streets on Peace-Day; but above all is the ringing sincerity, the passionate gratitude, that animates the big-hearted Scotch comedian. He really expresses your own fervor and thankfulness as you could never hope to express them yourselves.

Those who look to a song for the expression of tender emotion will find what they desire in "Could I" as sung by DeGogorza on a new Victor Record. Here the most exquisite sentiment is revealed with rare insight by this artist who has the susceptibility of a poet combined with rare vocal technique.

The Flonzaley Quartet—the most famous string quartet in the world—presents a jolly little Irish folk-song on a Victor Record just issued, "Molly on the Shore." Those for whom the words "chamber music" have an austere sound will rejoice to hear this noted quartet re-creating in the gay atmosphere of an Irish folk-song. It almost leads one to hope that chamber music is coming back to its own, for it may be said to have begun with the cheerful folk-dances for string orchestra, with which Bach so gloriously enriched us.

Geraldine Farrar interprets this month on a new Victor Record, a song that was dedicated to her. The "Boat Song" has a simple, tender melody. It is evidently a favorite with Farrar, and her singing of it reveals the gentler side of an artist who in the realm of Grand Opera has shown she can run the gamut of human emotions. Aside from the sentiment of the song it reveals in the singer a sweet mastery of the art of singing sustained throughout.

Disband Just Band—the dancers' delight

Two wonderful dance numbers, played by that Original Dixieland Jazz Band appear this month on a new Victor Record. The "Clarinet Marmalade Blues" is a one-step and on the reverse of the record is "Mourning Blues," a foxtrot. The "Marmalade" affair is well named, for the composers had something worth preserving—a crazy raggy bunch of sounds that rattle along like a circus in a hurry. The "Mourning Blues" is calculated to draw nothing more serious than the kind of tears that crocodiles are wont to shed.

Two other one-steps are played by that favorite dance orchestra—Joseph C. Smith—on a new Victor Record. "Oh! Frenchy Medley" introduces "Goodbye Alexander" and "After You've Gone" together with occasional snatches from some favorites of other days. "Me-Ow" on the reverse of the record, is a lively character piece just full of "pop" from start to finish. The interpolated "me-ow" from members of the orchestra and the busy chatter of violins should make it a great favorite.

A new Victor artist comes into the limelight. Vernon Dalhart makes his bow with a plaintive song on a Victor Record, "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody." It is a cheery heartfelt little melody—a dark song of a "rolling stone" who has gone back home to his manny to be put to bed in the old style. Mr. Dalhart produces a new effect at the repetition of the refrain by humming the tune. This song has made a big hit at the "Winter Garden Show,"

On the other hand of the record the Sterling Trio sings "The Pickaninny's Paradise." It is a dark, sleep-song, which paints a cunning picture of a far-away land where the streets are paved with gold, where every feeding bird has diamonds for eyes, and every kink-headed boy and girl plays with a pony of real silver. The refrain is repeated as a violin duet, and the harmony is very rich.

Gall-Curti, that charming coloratura soprano of the highest order, gives expression to a fresh, delightful song, "La Capinera" (The Wren).

It is light and air and fragrant with the breath of early spring. Indeed on first hearing one is apt to lose sight of the brilliant vocal display, the lilting staccato, the even, level, steady tone quality, the perfect control and absolute clarity in even the most rapid of its darting phrases. The final crescendo on a high note comes as a fitting climax to a song that is as interesting from a technical, vocal standpoint as it is charming in a poetic way.

H. S. DEAT HUDSON BASKETBALLERS

And Juniors. Which are a Fine Team. Considering Lack of Practice. Best Sophomores.

Friday afternoon in the high school gymnasium the local Midgets swamped the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Hudson in a fast game of basketball.

Albrecht and Foster, the Kingston forwards, played well and Albrecht made the score pile up with his usual ease and skill. In the second half, Thompson substituted for Foster and supplemented the latter's good play.

Allen played his usual good center game and helped the score along with a couple of neat field baskets. Goldberg and Messinger, the guards, did not do much scoring but played a close guard game. They were careful not to venture far from their opponents' basket and kept their forwards from doing much damage.

M. Weiss, Hudson's center, did the best playing for the visitors and scored the highest for them too. The score was as follows:

Twenty minute halves. A. W. Bailey, referee.

Before the Midget game the Juniors defeated the Sophomores, 13 to 6. The game was fast and exciting, but the Sophomores' guards were not able to hold down the Junior forwards. This is the second game that the Juniors have played and won without a single practice together except what they ordinarily get before starting a game. Therefore, they have a just right claim to the championship of the class teams. The Junior team has been greatly strengthened by the addition of "Skinny" McAndrew. He was the Midgets' captain last year, so there is no need to say that he can still play. The score was as follows:

Juniors	Fields	Fouls	Total

The time periods were of ten minutes each, so the game was only about half as long as usual. Captain "Peckey" Webster, of the Varsity, refereed the game.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Juniors	2	0	1.000
Seniors	1	1	.500
Sophomores	1	1	.500
Freshmen	0	2	.000

At least one more game for each team will be played. The Seniors have challenged the Juniors to two more games to decide upper-class championship.

Remember the Golden Rule.

Perhaps the person isn't living who hasn't certain little peculiarities, but that is no reason why some narrow-minded individual should take it upon herself to weave into whole cloth those tiny, discordant ravellings and then pass on her "discovery" to anyone who will listen. If the listener is a believer in the Golden Rule she will not only turn a deaf ear to such a recital, but dismiss her uncharitable informant as quickly as possible.—Exchange.

When the Baboon Calls.

Baboons have been a sore trouble lately to many South African folk, and poison clubs have been founded to keep them away and reduce their numbers. Baboons recently raided a farm in Robertson and, ignoring all efforts to drive them away, rode the donkeys in the back yard. In Laingsburg, driven by hunger, they raided gardens in broad daylight.

ALBANY GAS RATE
QUESTION AGAIN

The Albany gas rate question in relation to raising the rate to $1.30 a thousand feet, came up again before Justice Hasbrouck, at regular special term of the supreme court at the court house, Saturday. Nellie F. Turner, counsel for the Municipal Gas Company applied for an order to show cause why an injunction should not be issued restraining the city of Albany, the second district public service commission and the state of New York from interfering with the Gas Company in putting its higher rate into effect. Pending a decision by Justice Hasbrouck a stay order has been granted which acts as a temporary injunction. The Gas Company has filed a bond of $1,000 pending the decision, in addition to a $100,000 bond now in effect. If Justice Hasbrouck grants the injunction asked by the Gas Company the higher rate can be put immediately into effect. If his decision is contrary to the contentions of the Gas Company and sustains the objections of the city of Albany, the public service commission and the state, the one dollar rate must be made effective, pending further decisions by the courts. The Gas Company in the meanwhile is delaying enforcing the $1.30 rate. John J. McManus appeared for the city of Albany, and Deputy Attorney General Arthur E. Rose for the state of New York. Briefs were ordered filed and Justice Hasbrouck is expected to send his decision while away.

COLDER WEATHER
NEEDED FOR ICE

Old Br'er Groundhog as a Weather Forecaster Will Have to Provide Cold Snap to Save Ice Crop From Disaster.

Old Br'er Groundhog saw his shadow on Sunday, that no one can dispute, but the cold snap he predicted will surely have to commute to save his job as forecaster, the ice crop from disaster, and prove that as a prognosticator he's still a bean. Sunday night the weather turned off colder and a quarter of an inch of ice formed on the Hudson river and Rondout creek. But the cold snap was not prolonged enough to hold what ice there was in the river. Since Wednesday the ice from Hudson to Kingston which is from 1 to 5 inches thick has been on the move.

This morning early the Rondout creek was free of ice, but when the flood tide came in the lower creek was filled with floating ice. During the day today the weather turned off mild and clear, and unless there is a cold wave shortly the groundhog school of weather forecasters will have to retire to the hills and caves in disgrace.

Prospects of securing an ice crop this season on the Hudson river are daily growing more dubious.

SIX WEEKS' WINTER.

By Grounding Calendar but Cocktail Drinkers Don't Worry About Ice.

A year ago it was a heathen Monday, stores and saloons being closed. This morning was a frosty one and, according to local weather sharps, rain will come within forty-eight hours. As the groundhog was able to see his shadow Sunday, Candlemas Day, winter weather can be looked for the coming six weeks. There is another old saying, "Fog in February, frost in May," which means that on the corresponding date in May that there was fog in February there will be a frost in May.

New York, Feb. 3.—The groundhog made one person happy yesterday when he ambled forth from his shadow, and ambled back to his hole again. The happy person was the lion, "Now I can fill my ice house," he said.

"What will be the odds if you don't?" said his companion. "There'll be no highballs when the hot weather comes."

English Strikers Gain.

Beginning today an 8-hour day will rule in about 55 per cent of the iron and steel mills in the Midland district of England, with no decrease in wages. Thousands of workmen in Shropshire, Lancashire, Yorkshire and Derbyshire will benefit.

An Example.

"Small eyes," says a physiognomist, "denote a cunning and envious nature." Just so. Notice how a small-eyed needle evades one's efforts to thread it.—Boston Transcript.

CHINESE SPEAKER PROTESTS

Against Liquor Business Locating in China To Missionary Meeting.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, held a large and very interesting special meeting at the home of Mrs. O. V. Wood on Broadway, Saturday afternoon. Miss Chen, a Chinese student at Vassar College, was present, and gave a most delightful talk on China. She spoke of China as the center of Oriental civilization, and told something of what the West has done for the nation, saying that to China, America is the best representative of Western civilization. She told what the missionaries have done for China physically, intellectually and spiritually; but of the great need of workers there who have extreme discernment and deep insight into the characteristics of the Chinese people, as China is now ready to receive anything from the West, with no sense of discrimination. Miss Chen spoke of the feeling of friendship and gratitude of the Chinese government toward America, this being evidenced by the fact that China uses the surplus indemnity returned by the United States since the Boxer uprising, for the education of Chinese students in America. She being one of these. In closing Miss Chen made a strong plea for every influence to be used against the liquor interests being allowed to locate in China, a country too weak now from four revolutions to suffer the consequences of this evil. She asked for prayer for the uplift of the nation. Miss Chen was dressed in Chinese costume. She possesses a very winsome personality and a strong sense of humor, which combined with marked intellectual ability and excellent command of English, made her a delightful speaker. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, who have been missionaries in China for thirty-six years and expect to return there next August, were present. Mr. Hayes and Miss Chen talked together in the Chinese language, to the interest of those present. Mr. Hayes later addressed the meeting. Mrs. Charles Colts gave an interesting paper on Chinese music, which was illustrated with selections on the piano by Miss Grete Linkletter, and by the singing of a Chinese lullaby by Miss Helen Webster. Miss Webster also gave another selection, a very pleasing Chinese-Japanese love song, which was much enjoyed. A very pleasant social hour followed, during which refreshments were served. The next regular meeting of the society will be held at the home of Miss Grace Terwilliger on Abel street, Tuesday afternoon, February 11th. The subject for the day will be Japan.
